4.99 / 5.0 rating on 691 reviews

Popular In-Person 90 min 10 - 1,000 guests $100 pp

Step into a world of art, history, and adventure with a Museum Hack experience at the iconic Metropolitan Museum of Art. As one of our flagship offerings, this 90-minute private corporate event promises an unforgettable journey filled with laughter, learning, and fantastic memories for your team.

Prepare to embark on a "behind the scenes" exploration of the museum's best-kept secrets, guided by our team of passionate and knowledgeable nerds who live and breathe museum culture. With their expertise and enthusiasm, they will serve as your private tour guides, offering a unique perspective that goes beyond the traditional museum experience.

Our approach is infused with a cultural lens that embraces diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging (DEIB), as well as team dynamics. We recognize the power of art to spark conversations, bridge gaps, and foster understanding, and we weave these elements into our experience to create a truly enriching and immersive adventure.

Prepare to be captivated by the museum's wildest stories. From the awe-inspiring tale of Hatshepsut, the Egyptian pharaoh whose stepson attempted to erase her from history, only for it to backfire spectacularly, to the mythical allure of an 18th-century ultimate swag accessory believed to have originated from a unicorn, each story will transport you to a different time and ignite your imagination.

But it's not just about listening to fascinating stories. We believe in active engagement and participation. Throughout the experience, you and your team will engage in mini-games and challenges carefully designed to enhance your connection with the art and with each other. These unexpected and entertaining activities will boost engagement, foster teamwork, and create a dynamic atmosphere of shared exploration and discovery.

Our Museum Hack experience is more than just a tour—it's an invitation to delve into the rich tapestry of human creativity, to uncover hidden narratives, and to forge lasting connections within your team. It's an opportunity to break away from the mundane and embrace the extraordinary.

So, gather your team and prepare for an adventure like no other. Step into the Metropolitan Museum of Art with us and let us unlock the wonders of the past, present, and future. Together, we'll create memories that will last a lifetime and inspire a newfound appreciation for art, history, and the power of teamwork. Let the Museum Hack begin!

Agenda

Intro, welcome, and icebreaker
 At the start of the event, the guide will greet team members at the entrance of The Met and initiate an engaging icebreaker round. These thought-provoking 10 minutes icebreakers are specifically designed to boost participation and establish meaningful connections.

Down To Party Challenge The Down to Party Challenge is a quick scavenger hunt activity that inspires attendees to find a figure in a piece of art who seems like they would be stoked to have a good time together. This mini game upturns common expectations for a museum tour, gets groups moving, and reframes visitors' mindsets to create personal connections to museum pieces.

Tour stops + games Guides shepherd tourgoers through The Met, stopping at key locations to bring group focus towards certain pieces or exhibits and share fascinating facts and stories that help guests experience the museum in new and exciting ways. Tours dive deep into eight to ten pieces of art, many of which are lesser known yet have fascinating background stories. Guides impart these histories using Museum Hack's signature storytelling framework and through a diversity lens that reframes the traditional narratives and voices expected in these institutions. Along the way, there will also be interactive group games such as picture challenges and perhaps even a photobomb or two!
	70 minutes
Group photo and wrap-up At the end of the experience, the guide will take a photo of the group striking a memorable pose among an exhibit, and will lead the group in final thoughts and reflections.
