

'90s Murder Mystery Party (In-Person)

teambuilding.com partner In-Person 120 min 18 - 50 guests $50 pp

The year is 1998. But you and your guests will be partying like it's 1999, decked out in your most stylish '90s gear. Unfortunately, a detective will soon arrive with some startling news. There has been a murder.

The detective, played by a highly skilled and experienced improv actor from our partner company, will arrive to host the event, taking a few moments to hide some clues around your space. At the start of the event, each of the guests are given an envelope with their character name and description, along with information about how they knew the deceased (and an extra bit of gossip). The detective will explain that this particular murder mystery is extra mysterious as the killer has created an elaborate trail of clues and puzzles that leads to their identity. Everyone at the party is a suspect, and one thing is certain: the killer is among them. The group must work together to solve each of the puzzles, ultimately exonerating the innocent and exposing the one true killer.

This game is jam-packed with nostalgia and humor and is certain to delight anyone with a fondness for this epic decade. It works very well for team building, since it can come straight to the office and your team members must work alongside each other to solve this real-time mystery. We also encourage participants to dress 90s, which is always fun among co-workers!

This murder mystery party is designed to come to you. The experience runs about 2 hours and is best played by a minimum of 6 people.Â

Reviews:

"I have done a murder mystery or two in my day, and this one had - by a long shot - the most creative and well-designed puzzles/clues that I've encountered. Also, the writing is hilarious."

-Chris, Corporate Client

"The 90's Murder Mystery Party wasâ€¦off the chain! It was so funny and puzzles were challenging and tickled my nostalgia funny bone."
